THIS IS WHAT THE CHURCH SHOULD LOOK LIKE!: A REFLECTION ON LAST SUNDAY'S SERMON

By Pastor Mac, Jr.

This past Sunday, we were reminded of what the church is truly called to be through a powerful message from Acts 2:42–47. The sermon challenged us to look beyond routine worship and rediscover the blueprint of the early church — a community marked by devotion, unity, and spiritual power.

The message emphasized that real revival does not begin with programs or personalities, but with a deep spiritual hunger for God. The early believers were devoted to the apostles' teaching, fellowship, prayer, and worship. Their commitment created an atmosphere where God's presence moved freely and lives were transformed. We were encouraged to examine our own spiritual hunger and ask whether we are truly seeking God or simply attending church.

“God is still adding, still saving, and still moving today.”

The second focus of the sermon highlighted the importance of unity and love within the body of Christ. The early church shared life together, supported one another, and walked in genuine fellowship. Their love for each other became a powerful testimony to the world. We were reminded that revival flourishes where unity lives, and that strong relationships within the church strengthen our witness outside of it.

Finally, the sermon celebrated the results of a revived church: power, joy, favor, and growth. Scripture tells us that the Lord added to their number daily. When the church aligned with God’s design, increase came naturally. The message encouraged us to believe that God is still adding, still saving, and still moving today.

As a church family, we were challenged to move from simply attending church to truly being the church. When we devote ourselves to God’s Word, walk in unity, and live with expectation, we create space for God to move in powerful ways.
